

New small work: Harper Hogg Shinnors

New small work: Harper Hogg Shinnors

December 4, 2020 - January 17, 2021

The Hunt Museum's Winter exhibition features work by three well known Limerick artists, Charles Harper, Gavin Hogg and John Shinnors. Placed in a virtual gallery this new collection of work while contemporary in composition has a timeless quality. These paintings provide us with a much needed space to reevaluate daily life. In Harper's watercolours he explores themes around Skellig monks, native Americans, stress and human celebratory interaction. In Hogg's work in mixed media he addresses the contemporary obsession with information and the level of attention we are expected to give it. The very popular recurring lighthouses, scarecrows, and kites feature in Shinnors semi abstract oil pastel, oil on panel and watercolour paintings.

Though each artist's work differs greatly in style and technique, these contrasting works comfortably sit side by side and track the artists' journeys from a place of reality to a space of reflection.

If you are interested in buying any of the works please contact adminoffice@huntmuseum.com. We are happy to offer the ability to pay for the works in 4 payments of 25%. The first payment would be a non refundable deposit.
